Why do I do things ~ For You or Me?

There are a whole bunch of reasons why we do what we do in our daily living - to give or receive pleasure, obtain an income to cover necessities, being required to do them through our employment or the law, for the benefit of family, friends and the community to mention a few.

Yet, we really need to ask ourselves what is the real underlying reason for taking these actions. Do we do them primarily from the motive of what we can get out of it all or to be a good and useful member of society? For most tasks, it is not always easy to differentiate between the reasons for undertaking them and our expectations as to how they should be seen by others.

The teachings found in Emanuel Swedenborg's spiritual writings provide helpful guidance in appreciating the need to understand the importance of recognising our inner motives for doing what we do.

Glenn Alden, a retired Minister of the New Church (Swedenborg) in North America visiting Victoria for several months, will again be the speaker for the evening, introducing this topic for discussion. There will be plenty of time for questions.

Entry Donation: $5 to help cover costs

Refreshments will be provided following the talk and discussion.
